Thursday, July 11, 2024

1:30 - 2:30 p.m. ET | 12:30 - 1:30 p.m. CT

SUMMARY:

Behavioral health is a key component of a comprehensive facility assessment. Jacob Berelowitz, program director at the Center of Excellence For Behavioral Health in Nursing Facilities, will discuss using a behavioral health needs assessment to identify training, staffing and resource requirements. This approach aims to facilitate the delivery of person-centered care that enhances safety and promotes overall well-being.

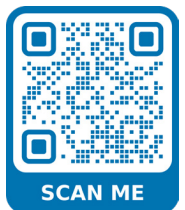

DURING THIS EVENT, LEARNERS WILL:

1. Understand and discuss existing versus revised facility assessment requirements.
2. Assess behavioral healthcare capacity and identify gaps using a behavioral health needs assessment.
3. Explore ways to create an environment that prioritizes and recognizes behavioral health as a key component to physical health and functional outcomes.
